

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES HEALTH & SOCIAL SERVICES BURSARY

Disability Assessment Form

The Northwest Territories Health and Social Services System Bursary Program (Bursary Program) is a bursary program available to Indigenous and Northern students pursuing an education in a health and social services related field, including allied health, midwifery, nursing, social services, and medical professions.

Applicants with a permanent disability will be considered a full-time student if they take 40% or more of a 100% course load. Applicants without a permanent disability will be considered a full-time student if they take 60% or more of a 100% course load. In the case of a high volume of applications received, applications will be prioritized. One criterion used to prioritize applications is priority status of the applicant under the GNWT Affirmative Action Policy.

For the purposes of this Bursary, “permanent disability” means a functional limitation caused by a physical or mental impairment that restricts the ability of a person to perform the daily activities necessary to participate in studies at a post-secondary level and that is expected to remain with the person for the person’s life.
